

Here is a pattern for your children to color and use in a challenging project related to the unit themes. Use the house on this page to assemble a bulletin board display with the children in your class.

Remove this page from the book and open the die-cut windows and door. Have the children color the houses. Let your students choose colors they like, not necessarily "right" colors, so each house will be unique. While they are coloring, you may take pictures of the children to mount inside the house windows. There are more suggestions in your teacher's commentary.

Love one another.
